

AHEAD Development Oriented Research Projects (DOR Projects)

Department of Biochemistry, Faculty of Medicine
University of Ruhuna

Research Assistant – One Position Available

Applications are invited from those interested in pursuing a PhD degree as a Research Assistant. One research project is available and the details of the project and the qualifications are mentioned below.

Tentative Project Title	Development and characterization of nanoparticle based antidiabetic drug leads from Sri Lankan flora. PhD registration will be at Faculty of Graduate Studies, University of Ruhuna (Full time, 3 years)
Qualifications	BSc in Chemistry with a First Class Honors or Second Class (Upper Division) - preferred
Other requirements	1. Good analytical skills, communication skills, competence in conducting laboratory experiments, data analysis. 2. Work experience in the field of “Nanotechnology” will be an added advantage.
Work stations	Industrial Technology Institute, Malabe, Colombo Wayaba University of Sri Lanka (approximately for eight months) Faculty of Medicine, University of Ruhuna, Galle

Method of submission of application.

Please send an application including a cover letter, CV and names of contact information of two unrelated referees to Dr. Anoja Attanayake, Head and Senior Lecturer in Biochemistry, Faculty of Medicine, University of Ruhuna (anoja715@yahoo.com) with a copy to pabasarakalansuriya@gmail.com

Monthly Salary

Up to Rs. 55,000 + EPF/ETF (~Rs. 63,250)

Application Closing Date: 31st May 2020